

The Talbotts.

The Talbott boys have paid the penalty of their crime. Whether they killed their father and whether they confessed are two questions upon which there always will be divided opinions. Many think that the evidence was so purely circumstantial that they should not have been hung, while others think they got their just deserts. But all these queries are practically answered now, and while many may still doubt and question, there is one thing about which our readers are unanimous, and that is that for like Summer Clothing, Blue Flannel Suits, Cheviot Suits, Linen and Alpaca Coats and Vests, Gent's Furnishing Goods, Underwear, etc., etc., they will go to
